shortlist

Inspired by nature, formed using alternative materials, the shortlist this month looks at the interplay of the visual and the tactile experiences that art and design can offer.

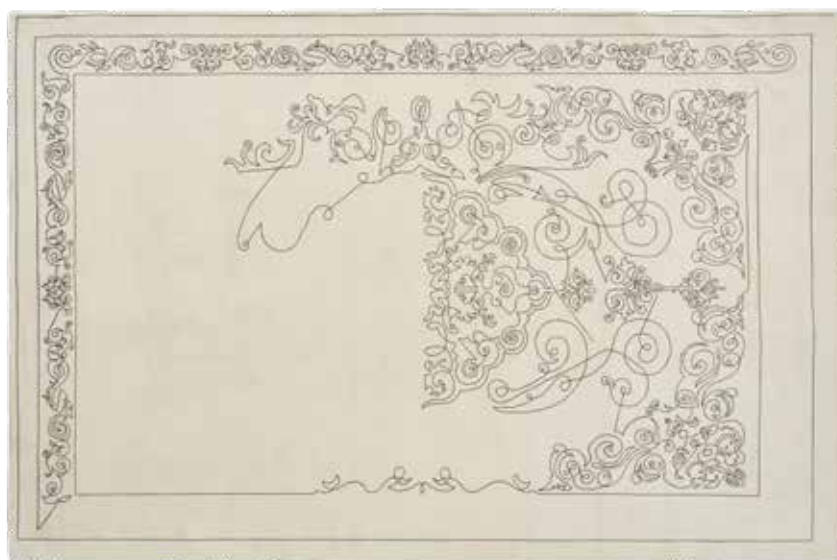

Dylan Martinez's sculptural water bags look sagged and soft but are unyielding and quite arresting in their form. The Reflex tub is a resin, despite its glassy appearance and the Brabbu side table, Bryce, is finished by paint, not naturally formed rock. Appearances can be deceiving.

RUGGED COMPANION

As featured at COLLECTIBLE Salon, in Belgium in May, NODUS featured some of its most compelling rug designs that we could not ignore. One Stroke comes in three phases, as designed by Nendo Design. Interior Designer has selected One Stroke ½ iteration, a modern take on a traditionalist rug.

INSTANT CLASSIC

Studio Chair by Buchanan Studio has become an overnight hit for its sartorial stripes and preppy personality. The design concept came about from the studio's admiration for furniture design of the 70s; curved shapes, natural materials and textures, that combine in an eclectic and playful manner. The Studio Chair responds to the era with a funky fresh attitude that includes generous proportions and a bold design. Constructed from Beech and Birch, the chair is handmade in England, with the linen sourced from Belgium. Colours available include rose, indigo and ruby. Personally, we want them all.
